

Publisher's Note

In Remembrance of MSS

Michael Scott Scudder, one of the fitness industry's premier research analysts and "watchdogs" passed away on June 30th from complications from hip surgery. He was my friend.

Michael and I worked together from my days as publisher for Fitness Management and later when he accepted a position on the OnSite Fitness Editorial Board — we had many active discussions regarding trends in the fitness arena through the years, not always totally concurring, but in the end always positive because of Michael's passion and respect for the industry.

Michael had worked with and had impact on many of the Ys and JCCs through the years and was very motivated to share his knowledge of how to structure and manage a better facility. He is and will be missed. Above all Michael was a good man with many friends, we have sadly lost one of our best industry supporters and critics.

Michael's last email to me closed with, "I've appreciated our friendship over all these years!"

Ditto Michael, rest in peace.

Until next time...
